HAS AN INNING

The Average St. Joseph Head of the House Gets Even for the First Time.

For the past couple of months—ever since the blizzards went out of business—the average St. Joseph family has been having heart-to-heart talks as to in what manner and by what means household expenses may be cut down and something of the average salary put in the bank for this summer's vacation. The Average Man has been troubled, too, as he puffed the long, black cigar—not financially troubled, but the result of a little worrying that some day the Average Woman was going to get personal about their saving plan. It came the other night.

"I see, dear," she began, her sweetness adding to his growing suspicion, "that the state is about to put another tax on cigars. They'll go up some more. You know I wouldn't suggest anything that would interfere with your pleasure, but don't you think cigars are getting too much of a luxury when we are trying to save?"

The Average Man grunted. It gained time; it prevented sudden complications. He had had an answer ready for weeks for this inevitable question, but reasoning fled just then. He had the paper she had already read. He would find out about this tax before he answered.

And then—ain't it a grand and glorious feeling?

"Very well, my dear," he said, trying to keep the neighbors from hearing the exultation in his tone. "This tax will give us both a chance to sacrifice. I'll quit my cigars if you'll give up powdering your face. You see, Sweet, the tax is on cosmetics, too."

And the Average Man grinned victoriously behind the newspaper.

The Republicans that were sent to the Missouri legislature need more backbone and less political chicanery. When a man will barter and bargain on an issue of Americanism for political gain or party expediency he is an unsafe citizen. Republicans in Nebraska, Illinois and Indiana stood as loyally for the abandonment of the teaching of alien languages in the elementary schools of the state as did the Democrats; but in Missouri the Republicans were as spineless as the jelly-fish when it came to a showdown on the question of whether or not the youth of Missouri should first be taught in the language in which our Constitution, our laws, our history and the masterpieces of literature are written.—Jackson Cash-Book.

The new bone dry measure now before the Missouri Legislature has a new amendment making it a crime to give a glass of wine to a friend in your own house. We are for it. We are for anything that will complete the extreme to which insane legislation is now proceeding. Indeed, it would appear that the prohibitionists are now going over to the anti crowd, because their legislative propositions are becoming so severe that they will sooner or later result in a popular outcry that will bring us back to sanity on the whole liquor question.—St. Louis Times.

Monroe City says it has the oldest mail carrier in point of service in the United States. On July 31, 1919, he will have traveled a distance of more than five times around the world. During this time he has owned and used thirty-two horses, two for eight and a half years at a stretch and the rest varying from a single trip up. When he first began his duties there were only twenty-eight mail boxes on the route and hardly a daily paper to deliver. Last month he distributed more than 7,000 pieces of mail.

St. Louis police records show a decided outbreak in crime with the advent of peace. Since January 1 there have been 1,199 burglaries, 218 hold-ups, 315 motor car thefts, twenty-five safe robberies and thefts by "trunk burglars" of merchandise worth $46,574, according to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Loot taken in various forms amounted to approximately $161,000. Highwaymen have killed two citizens one policeman and a private watchman.

Those working on the section now are the aristocrats of the country. They work eight hours a day, beginning at eight and quit at five, receiving $2.00 per day, a little more than was paid our school teachers. What a change from the old order of things—the laborer learns how to handle the shovel and pick and the teacher how to shoot into the youngster an education to fit him for life's work.—Corning Mirror.

The Polo News-Herald presents the other side of the "greens and hog jowl" rhapodies prevalent just now in Missouri with the following: "While gathering greens the other day, Mrs. Stella Murdock was bitten on the finger by a small snake."
